Report title Minimum ENTER

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

I.1 Background

DEEWR require all universities to publish a minimum ENTER and La Trobe has set its minimum at 50.

In practice, we do accept some students with ENTERs below 50, because Faculty selection officers have interpreted our minimum ENTER in two different ways:

- a) students who receive bonuses through Special Entry and Access Schemes (SEAS), or the Rural and Regional Student Access Scheme (RRSAS), may be bonused up to 50 and therefore become eligible for selection
- b) bonuses only apply to students with an ENTER of 50 or more

We need to decide whether our minimum ENTER is 50 for all applicants, or below 50 for applicants eligible for bonuses under SEAS or RRSAS.

I.2 Summary

The decision to reduce the minimum ENTER for certain applicants needs to be informed by consideration of two key issues:

- a) the academic success rates of students with ENTERs below 50
- b) our recruitment targets, and whether students with an ENTER below 50 need to be part of our target market

I.3 Issues (including any financial, legal or compliance issues)

a) Academic success rates

Attachments 1 and 2 show academic success rates of students admitted on the basis of ENTER, by ENTER band.

In summary, In 2008, of the 2746 students admitted on the basis of ENTER, 32 had an ENTER between 40 - 49.95. In 2009 there were only 20 students in a cohort of 2825 with an ENTER between 40 - 49.95. These numbers are very small, and it would be risky to draw conclusions about academic success based on this sample size.

However, students in the 50-59.95 band are a sizeable cohort, at roughly 10% of the intake of all students admitted on the basis of ENTER. In 2008, their success rate was 66%; in 2009 their success rate was 75%. Academic success increases markedly in higher ENTER bands. In 2009, students with an ENTER of 60-69.95 had a success rate of 85%.

This data suggests that students with lower ENTERs have a reasonable chance of succeeding at University, but may need additional academic support in order to do so.

The capacity of the Faculty and campus to provide appropriate academic support would therefore be an important consideration in the admission of students with ENTERs below 50.

b) Recruitment targets

The University has set ambitious growth targets for undergraduate CSP over the next few years. Growth will come from several sources, including the current Year 12 sector, the non-year 12 sector and TAFE.

In terms of the current Year 12 sector, growth can be achieved by:

- taking market share from competitors
- growing the market by encouraging more students to choose University rather than TAFE or employment
- growing the market by recruiting students with ENTERs below 50 and recruiting students into degree or pathways programs such as diplomas

Attachment 3 shows that in Victoria, there are approximately 5,600 students in the ENTER band 40 – 49.95, including 1,000 in regional Victoria. This cohort represents 12% of the total pool of VTAC applicants with an ENTER and is a sizeable market.

I.4 RECOMMENDATION

It is recommended that the University will consider applicants through SEAS, or applicants eligible for the RRSAS, whose ENTERs are below 50, where this will bring their ENTERs up to at least 50.
