

Value of a Community Football Club

Research Background

The Centre for Sport and Social Impact (CSSI) at La Trobe University was commissioned by AFL Victoria to determine the social value of a “typical” community football club; specifically its social, health and community impact.

Research Design

The research design comprised two stages:

1. Conducting nine case studies on the activities and outcomes of football clubs in various locations across Victoria developed through 110 in-depth interviews with club and community members; and
2. A survey sent to all members of AFL Victoria football clubs across the state (with 1677 returned) examining individual health, well-being, trust and social connectedness.

It is important to note that this research includes the views of people outside of football clubs. The research design deliberately sought to confirm the views of football club members with those in their communities in developing the case studies and comparing the results of the survey of football club members with the general community.

For every $1 spent on a community football club, there is at least $4.40 return in social value.

Social Return on Investment

The social return on investment for an average community football club indicates that for every $1 spent to run a club, there is at least $4.40 return in social value in terms of increased social connectedness, wellbeing, and mental health status; employment outcomes; personal development; physical health; civic pride and support of other community groups.

SROI is an increasingly accepted method for undertaking impact assessments, especially for community focussed organisations and has been identified by the Productivity Commission as a comprehensive method for social impact assessment. SROI is based on program logic – the process of identifying the inputs, activities, outputs, outcomes and impacts associated with an organisation.

'We joined this club when we moved; I didn't know a single person in the town. Now I can walk down the street and know lots of people.'

'You know the one thing about footy, whenever you meet up with someone you played footy with, you've always got something to talk about, it creates those lifelong connections with people.'

'My football club is like a second family to me and everyone involved with the club. Not only have I gained many lifelong friends, but I have role models who I look up to and have taught me so much since joining the club. Our club is a place where you can go to escape from normal everyday life and also confront your problems with the help of the people at the club.'

'Our club is the hub of our community. I have witnessed young boys who come from abusive homes and are disconnected from school and the community come to our club and feel part of a team. These boys learn respect, discipline, team work, responsibility, mate ship and a sense of belonging.'

'You can always be welcomed down at the football club – it doesn't matter who you are or what your background is.'

'My football/netball club brings the community together. Living in a country area, it is a place that allows everyone to catch up at least once a week, brings the family together and strengthens relationships.'

'I know from my own experience that I would not be in the career I am now if it was not for the contacts I made through football.'

Community Outcomes

1. Football clubs harness the collective energy of players, coaches, administrators, volunteers and supporters to not only deliver sport and social activities for members, but for their respective communities.
2. Football clubs are increasingly engaged with their communities, delivering a range of services such as school holiday clinics and health awareness programs in schools, while supporting other community groups' events and fundraising efforts, supporting health awareness and education campaigns, and supporting socially disadvantaged members of the community participate in football.
3. A football club's reach is significant and extends beyond its players, coaches, administrators and volunteers; for every 1 player, football clubs reach 10 people in their community, generating increased civic pride.
4. Football clubs are considered the hub of a community, particularly in rural and regional areas, are a focal point for community efforts in times of crisis and celebration, and are considered by club and community members as central to shaping the identity of a township or area.
5. Sponsors typically support community football clubs to assist them deliver community benefits rather than for commercial gain.
6. Football club leaders, on and off the field, are considered community role models.

Economic Outcomes

1. As highlighted under social outcomes, football clubs create direct employment opportunities for their communities.
2. Football clubs are large consumers within their own communities, supporting local businesses such as bakeries, cafes, hotels, butchers, restaurants and local trades people.
3. The average community football club in Victoria makes an annual economic contribution of $630,000 (Street Ryan Economic Contribution Assessments of Australian Football).

It does not matter where you live, how long or how often you are involved in a football club, or what role you have (player, coach, volunteer, supporter) in the club, people associated with a football club experience greater social connectedness, wellbeing and self-reported physical and mental health.
