Are you Virtuous?

DATELINE LA TROBE UNIVERSITY: The whole University is in an uproar over some small blue forms... small blue pills I can understand but blue forms are a mystery. So what's it all about?

You may have noticed during enrolments that Blue Survey forms have been distributed to enrolling students to try and ascertain their levels of usage of virtual media. This is part of a project being conducted by a PhD student. The aim of this study is to investigate the evolving skill set enrolling students are using to manipulate virtual media. Virtual communications is increasingly important for both work and leisure. This research is intended to help identify, develop and improve techniques, procedures and skills as well as enhancing the adaptation of future workers to virtual environments and, therefore improving productivity and reducing stress.

If you have filled in the form, thank you for your time- the information is, even as you read these words, being put in a huge data-file. If you still have one of the forms and need a place to return it then please bring it to the Contact Office behind the Bakery and hand it to the smiling person behind the desk... they have somewhere special to put it. If you would like to contribute your opinion and you are a first year student then please pick up a form from the above mentioned office. This is just another small way that La Trobe is making the world a safer and better place!
