

School of Historical and European Studies

History

Dr Susan Aykut

PhD 2002

Since completing her PhD at La Trobe University in the Schools of Art History and History in 2002, Susan has been fortunate to find work as an historian in a variety of positions in both the university and public sectors. She has been a lecturer in the Fine Arts Department at the University of Melbourne, a project officer for The National Centre for History Education based at La Trobe University and a research historian for Banyule City Council and for the Philatelic Group at Australia Post.

Currently Susan is Deputy Director of the Institute for Public History at Monash University, a position that requires plenty of multitasking: from organising commissioned histories and public history events to publishing books and newsletters. It also allows her to continue researching into the weird and wonderful worlds that fascinate her as well as run a course at what she calls the boutique end of teaching - a study tour to Turkey - a playground she loves.

“ .. allows her to continue researching into the weird and wonderful worlds that fascinate her as well as run a course at what she calls the boutique end of teaching - a study tour to Turkey - a playground she loves.”

Disclaimer: The information contained in this publication is indicative only. The University reserves the right, before or after enrolment, to make any changes to the information, including but not limited to discontinuing or varying courses, subjects (units), staff, assessment and admission requirements. The University does not give any warranties in relation to the accuracy and completeness of the contents; nor does it accept responsibility for any loss or damage occasioned by use of the information contained in this publication. For course information updates, visit: www.latrobe.edu.au/coursefinder

CRICOS Provider 00115M