

Brian's Puzzle of the Week: 13

This puzzle was passed on to me by an eminent Hungarian professor of mathematics, who solved it when he was in primary school:

Each natural number is a factor of a natural number that needs only 0's and 1's when written in decimal notation.

Prove it.

