

Rehabilitation Consultant

- Work from home and on site
- Excellent mentoring and professional development opportunity
- A job where you can make a difference

CoWork is a specialist Occupational Rehabilitation Company focused on providing innovative Injury Management solutions for employers and employees.

Due to significant growth, CoWork is expanding its consultancy team and has the requirement for another full time occupational therapist to provide occupational rehabilitation services.

The role includes vocational assessments, task analysis, employment counselling and the development and maintenance of relationships with key stakeholders such as the patient, clients and medical providers.

We require an individual with excellent oral and written communication skills, the ability to work autonomously and effectively plan and organise their time.

This position is the challenge in life you have been looking for. You can make a difference to individual's lives through your commitment and passion to excellent occupational rehabilitation.

Experience is preferred but not mandatory. There is some flexibility to the role, but the hours are not 9 to 5, as CoWork's success is driven by its ability to meet client's needs.
