

Heather is a senior health informatician with more than 30 years experience having designed and implemented systems for national infrastructure in Australia and overseas – for hospitals, community health, and district nursing, general practice and allied health. She is also an active health consumer representative. She is a Fellow of the Australian College of Health Informatics and is experienced in providing education in Health Informatics in Australia, China and Brazil. Heather is active in national and international strategic development of Electronic Health Records having sat on many national and international data and information related committees. She chairs Standards Australia's Health Informatics Committee and international working groups at ISO and HL7 (Health messaging standards).