

INTRODUCTION

The Thesis Eleven Centre for Critical Theory was formally established in 2001 and commenced activities in 2002. It is closely aligned with the international critical theory and historical sociology journal of the same title, published by Sage, London. The journal is now in its 27th year of operation.

We wish to take this opportunity to formally announce that as from 17th December, 2007, our centre is now called Thesis Eleven Centre for Cultural Sociology. The broad horizon of cultural sociology is a more accurate indicator of what the centre actually does in its operations. Critical theory is a major source and tradition for us, but cultural sociology is a more expansive description of what we do and where we are heading.

We are pleased to present the 5th Annual Report.

MEMBERSHIP

How the Centre Works:

The Centre focuses on organizing four kinds of events:

1. Annual and public lectures by leading and renowned intellectuals and scholars, both here and overseas;
2. Full day seminars on the work and thought of such intellectuals with them present and working in conversation with a range of local interlocutors and discussants of their work;
3. Half day seminars on particular themes with invited speakers;
4. Symposia and colloquia in other cities either connected to the work of the journal or to international social theory and social science conferences.

The Centre has four fields of operation:

local - Bundoora and City campuses;
regional – especially Mildura Campus;
national (Curtin, Murdoch and University of Western Australia in Perth; Flinders University in Adelaide); and international (spanning three continents: Europe, Asia and North America but also New Zealand).

In all cases we are pro-active, working through our own international and national professional and intellectual networks, minimising overheads and resources and maximizing local-global connections and networks, and ensuring intensive face to face encounters.

The co-ordinating editors of the journal, Thesis Eleven, Professor Peter Beilharz and Dr Trevor Hogan, are the founding Director and Deputy Director of this Centre, respectively. As such they are also Chair and Deputy Chair of the Board of Management.

Ordinary Members of the Centre who are also on the Board of Management appointed by the Dean of the Faculty, include the Dean himself, Professor David de Vaus, as well as Professors Johann Arnason, Joel Kahn, John Carroll (as Associate Dean Research), and Ms Mary Reilly.

Student Members are Adrian Barker, Darrell Bennetts, Christine Ellem, David Freeman, Kirsten Henderson, Anthony Rodriguez-Jiminez, and Edwin Wise.

Associate Members are: Suzi Adams, Simon Marginson, Peter Murphy, David Roberts, John Rundell, Karl Smith and Vince Marotta.

Honorary Members are: Professor Stuart McIntyre (Melbourne), Professor Jeffrey Alexander (New Haven), Professor Joanna Bourke (London), Professor Craig Calhoun (NYC), Dr Luis David SJ (Manila), Professor Maria Pia Lara (Mexico City), Professor Emeritus George Markus (Sydney), Dr Maria Markus (Sydney), Professor Tessa Morris-Suzuki (Canberra), Professor Peter Newman (Fremantle), Professor George Ritzer (Maryland), Professor Emeritus Bernard Smith (Melbourne), Professor Keith Tester (Portsmouth).

In Memoriam: Professor Emeritus George Seddon (Fremantle)
See 'Obituary: George Seddon, 23 April, 1927- 9 May, 2007' Thesis Eleven, 91, November, 107-109.

OBJECTIVES

The Centre has nine main aims, as set out in its Constitution:

1. To encourage the development and application of social and political theory throughout the world through publishing and presenting material in printed and electronic form and through delivering educational workshops, forums and conferences;
2. To facilitate international exchanges of internationally recognised scholars in the field of social and political theory;
3. To attract overseas students to enrol in the Faculty's postgraduate programs in the field of social and political theory;
4. To encourage local postgraduate research culture and scholarly research in the field of social and political theory;
5. To promote Thesis Eleven as an international journal of social and political theory;
6. To significantly expand the opportunities for research in the field of social and political theory;
7. To promote the teaching and research activities of members of staff of the University in the field of social and political theory;
8. To promote the training of postgraduates in research in the field of social and political theory;

9. To do all such things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above aims.

ADMINISTRATION

The Centre is a small operation with limited resources and big ambitions. It runs on the entrepreneurial imaginations of its Directors and their colleagues in the journal. It depends on the goodwill of academic and general staff in the Sociology and Anthropology program in the School of Social Sciences. In particular we record our thanks to the initiative, drive and support of Mary Reilly (who administers the Centre's account) and her team of administrative staff, Barbara Matthews, Bronwyn Bardsley, Kathy Ward, and Elaine Young.

In July 2005, Tracy Lee was appointed to work one day a week as Project Officer for the Centre and finishes duties at this 2007 AGM. Her appointment is funded by School and the Vice-Chancellor. We are grateful for her cheerful and unstinting efforts in attending to the details of event planning and logistics. We will miss her as she takes up her new appointment in the Faculty of Law and Management. The Centre also piggybacks on the resources of the journal office and in particular of the work of the two Production Assistants during this period, Suzi Adams (January - August, 2002) and Karl Smith (September, 2002-July, 2007). The new Production Assistant is Christine Ellem (July, 2007 -). The Directors of the Centre report regularly to the Editors' meetings of the journal and we are particularly grateful to our colleagues on the editorial team who are always imaginative, good humoured, generous-spirited and hard working.

The Centre does not have a separate budget as such. The modest funds associated with the Centre are kept (and earmarked) in the journal's La Trobe University operating account administered by Mary Reilly on our behalf.

We also wish to take this opportunity to express and record our appreciation and thanks for the enthusiasm and support of Professor Paul Johnson, the new Vice Chancellor, Professor David de Vaus, Dean of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, and Professor John Fitzgerald, Head of the School of Social Sciences, respectively. We thank the School for its consistent administrative, financial, and intellectual support and interest.

2007: THE YEAR IN REVIEW

Bundoora:

Adjunct Professor, 2007-2008

Alastair Davidson was a founding editor of Thesis Eleven journal in 1980. He has held chairs at Monash, Sydney, Princeton, Rutgers and Wollongong. He is the historian of Australian and Italian communism, biographer of and leading authority on Gramsci, and more recently has written books on the State, subject, citizenship and human rights.

Honorary Research Fellows

Thesis Eleven Centre led a team of 5 scholars from La Trobe University, Monash University, and the University of Western Australia, and 5 of our own postgraduate students

Activities of the Directors:

Peter Beilharz was on sabbatical leave in semester 2, 2007. He attended the American Sociological Association (ASA) in New York City, gave a paper on the antipodes and participated in a panel on critical theory. He visited Detroit, the city of Ruins, with sociologist and filmmaker George Steinmetz (Ann Arbor). At the ASA he met with Chris Rojek (Sage), Jason Weidemann (Minnesota UP), Loic Wacquant (Berkeley), Craig Calhoun (SSRC), Krishan Kumar (Virginia), Jonathon van Antwerpen (SSRC) and John Lie (Berkeley). Visiting Yale, he met with Jeffrey Alexander, Phil Smith, Charles Lemert (Wesleyan) Immanuel Wallestein and Robert Antonio (Kansas). He visited with Ron Jacobs (SUNY Albany) and Eleanor Townsley and Ken Tucker (Mt Holyoke). At Harvard he met with Janet Hatch. He visited Janina and Zygmunt Bauman in Leeds, also meeting Ian Varcoe and Richard Kilminster there. In London he interviewed Donald Sassoon for the Thesis Eleven journal. In France he visited Alastair Davidson and Kathleen Weekley. In November Peter was a visitor at the Institute of Advanced Studies at the University of Western Australia, giving lectures and seminars at Nedlands and Albany. In November he also joined in the 30th Anniversary seminar for the Harvard chair of Australian Studies held in Canberra. In December he participated in the SAANZ-TASA combined sociology conference in Auckland and had meetings and gave papers at Massey and Victoria University of Wellington. He organized the La Trobe visit and honorary doctorate for Jeffrey Alexander in December.

Trevor Hogan was on sabbatical leave in the first half of the academic year. During my OSP, I worked on my part of the co-authored book on Jean Martin and the Social Sciences in Australia, including literature review and publisher's book proposal. I wrote an obituary, 3 refereed journal articles and a photographic essay. I co-wrote an ARC Discovery Grant Application. I delivered 1 Public Lecture and 2 conference papers. In June, I took 13 delegates to Manila and Bangkok where I organised a series of public and academic events including 6 public lectures, 2 field trips, 2 x 2 day research colloquia, and a LTU art exhibition launched by the Australian Ambassador to the Philippines.

In the second half of this year, I have worked on preparing our Thesis Eleven projects in 2008 especially the proposed venture to India, December, 2008. I have obtained seeding grants for this venture from Academy of Social Science of Australia and the Australia-India Council, and organised for a hosting committee in India and the participant lists in the research workshop from the Australian delegation.

RESEARCH

PROJECTS:

Jean Martin and the Social Sciences in Australia: The ARC funding has now finished and we thank Dr Amanda Watson for her significant contribution to the research in her capacity as Project Officer. We are currently writing the book.

The Vinyl Age: History of Australian Rock Music, 1945-1990: We wrote and submitted an ARC Discovery Grant application for this project in February. Despite very positive readers' reports we were unsuccessful. We are currently rewriting the application for re-submission in the next round, February, 2008.

Social Division and the Pursuit of Harmony in the Antipodes in the Twentieth Century: ARC funding for this project expired 2006. Peter Beilharz continues to research his book on Australian modernity; Lloyd Cox continues to work on his book, a comparative analysis of Australia and New Zealand over the last 30 years; and Darrell Bennetts continues work on the leading New Zealand intellectual William Pember Reeves.

Sociology: Place, Time, and Division (Melbourne: OUP, 2006):
The textbook has been used for the past two semesters in our first year sociology subject ‘Australia and Beyond’ delivered to over 450 students each year. The book has been received enthusiastically by students and Hogan is also using it in his 2nd and 3rd year subjects on ‘Asia-Pacific Cities’ and ‘Australian Cities and Regions’.
