SCAMS & FRAUD

Fraud is when someone pretends to be someone they're not. A scam is when someone pretends to be someone they're not in order to take your money or something else valuable from you.

---

How do scams work?

All scams are slightly different, but they are all deceitful ways of taking your money or tricking you into doing something you don't want to do.

Types of scams:

- University fees – often targeting international students, they offer you a discount on your fees; e.g. you pay a person at a 20% discount and they pay your full fees directly to the Uni. Often they pay with stolen credit cards, so the payment is later declined, you lose the money you paid them and still owe your full fees.
- Penalty – threatening you with arrest or legal ramifications if you don't pay the amount they are asking for. These scammers may scare you into thinking that you will get a criminal conviction or be deported.
- Fraudulent agents – offering to assist you with things, such as a job or fraudulent documents/certificates, if you pay them a large sum of money upfront.
- Prize/Lottery – advising you've won a competition/prize via text message or email.

- Dating & romance – using fake profiles to start a relationship on different apps or social media. Once they have your trust, they might start to ask you for money.
- Unexpected Money - these can come in many different forms, e.g. pretending to be the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) advising that you have an unclaimed tax return. These scams ask for your personal details or tell you to click on a link to steal your details.
- Accommodation – offering to find you a house if you pay them money upfront which they state will be a bond, the house is often not as described or may not exist at all.

What to do if you think you've been scammed?

 Do not pay any money, click on any suspicious links or give out your banking details.

 Let a trusted friend, family member or colleague know what is going on for you.

 Reach out to formal supports in the University: Safer Community, International Student Services, Counselling or Student Union.

 Report this to your local police station, in person or by phone. Safer Community can help.

 If you have paid money or someone has your bank details, report this to your bank immediately. All banks will have an emergency number where you can contact them 24/7.

 Report the scam to the Australian Government via the ScamWatch website.

 Support yourself, remember that this is not your fault and you shouldn't feel ashamed.
