SUBMISSION GUIDE FOR ARTICLES TO AUSTRALASIAN DRAMA STUDIES

• Contributions up to 6000 words (including endnotes) are acceptable.
• All articles are peer-reviewed anonymously; consequently the author's name must not appear on the copy submitted. The editors will contact the author with any suggested alterations and comments after peer assessments have been made. This process can usually take up to 2 months.
• If accepted for publication, a disc or email copy is required and a five-line biography of the author.
• Titles should reflect as closely as possible the topic of your article. In your title, please try to include the appropriate key words that a researcher might use to find your article in a database.
• Contributors should follow the MLA style for citations but using endnotes. For example, after a quote or reference is made in the text, an endnote number is cited. In the list of NOTES at the end of the article the citation should then conform to the following examples:

  From a Book

  From an Article

  From a Chapter in a Book

  From a Newspaper Article
  52 Stephen Sewell, ‘Lost in the Clouds’, Courier-Mail (28 July 2001): 4 (N.B. this style is preferred even if the original headline is ‘Lost in the clouds’)

  From a Website

• Copyright on all articles appearing in Australasian Drama Studies rests with the author. Apart from any fair dealing for the purposes of study, research, criticism or review as permitted under the Copyright Act, no part of Australasian Drama Studies may be reproduced by any process without permission of the editors and the contributing author. Authors should note that online full text retrieval of Australasian Drama Studies articles is available from the Australian Public Affairs Full Text Service (APAIS): a service used by most university libraries in Australia and New Zealand and from Informit (formerly RMIT Publishing).

CONTRIBUTORS WHO AGREE TO PUBLICATION WITH ADS ASSIGN TO THE JOURNAL THE REPRODUCTION RIGHTS OF THIS ARTICLE IN ADS IN ANY FORMAT. COPYRIGHT AND MORAL RIGHTS REMAIN WITH AUTHOR.

• The editors welcome relevant visual images to accompany written texts. Please submit images as jpeg files or black and white photographs. Please ensure that the photographer/designer is duly acknowledged and that they understand the copyright arrangements (including the image’s online availability through APAIS). The photographer’s name as well as any persons appearing in the image should be clearly marked on the back of the photograph or in an email in the case of jpeg attachment.

  Australasian Drama Studies is indexed in AUSLIT, the Australian literary database; in APAIS (Australian Public Affairs Information Service); the MLA Bibliography; Australian Literary Studies; Modern Drama; and the International Bibliography of Theatre.

• Please email your submission or any other enquiry to Meredith Rogers (m.rogers@latrobe.edu.au). For submissions for publication in special focus issues, please send directly to the guest editor as listed on the inside cover of recent issues.
