

Your writing journey: then and now competition rules, 2022

1. This competition is open to all La Trobe graduate research candidates and staff in roles relevant to research.
2. The competition prize is a $250 book voucher, provided via email
3. Submissions must be via email to red.grs@latrobe.edu.au up to the due date/time, with the following conditions:
 - a. One submission per person limit.
 - b. Submission email should use the subject line Your writing journey: then and now submission.
 - c. Submission should include applicant's name, email, and phone number.
 - d. Submission takes the form of a single page PDF/TIFF/PNG/JPG document, attached to the email.
 - e. Includes 1- 3 images.
 - f. Includes a limited amount of explanatory text in the form of titles, captions, speech bubbles, labels text embedded in the image, etc.
 - g. Images may incorporate original art (photographs, sketches, drawing, painting, etc.) or existing material that is not subject to copyright.
 - h. Images used under creative commons should include appropriate credit, and should be suitable for re-publication. It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure copyright conditions are met in all cases.
 - i. If in the judges' view an image may involve unresolved copyright, the submission will be set aside from the competition.
 - j. Applicants consent to the reproduction of their submission by the RED Team (with consultation) for researcher development program purposes (e.g. showcasing submissions via social media).
4. Prize to be judged by the RED Team and invited guests. Judges' decisions are final.
5. Criteria for judging:
 - a. Submission meets the conditions outlined above.
 - b. Submission addresses the competition topic.
 - c. Submission demonstrates a sense of research narrative that is consistent with the idea of 'then and now'.
 - d. Submission is creative and engaging.
 - e. Submission is easy to understand/self-explanatory, and suitable for sharing within the research community.

You may contact the RED Team for further information: red.grs@latrobe.edu.au